Farmer Testimonials

The two shooters I had here could not be faulted. They did an excellent job, and all gates were shut properly, etc. I think the program is a great asset in helping reduce the plague proportion of pest animals at the moment, especially with the drought conditions we are experiencing out here. Thank you.

Tracey W, Newstead

A great response from my ad allowed me to select and meet some good quality people who are becoming very valuable to my little business in trying to get a more environmental and economic balance.

Roger, Roma

Farmer Assist is a wonderful service for the rural landowner both monetary and time wise...

Who we are:

Established in 1948, we are Australia's premier shooting organisation representing more than 180,000 members interested in shooting sports, hunting and wildlife management.

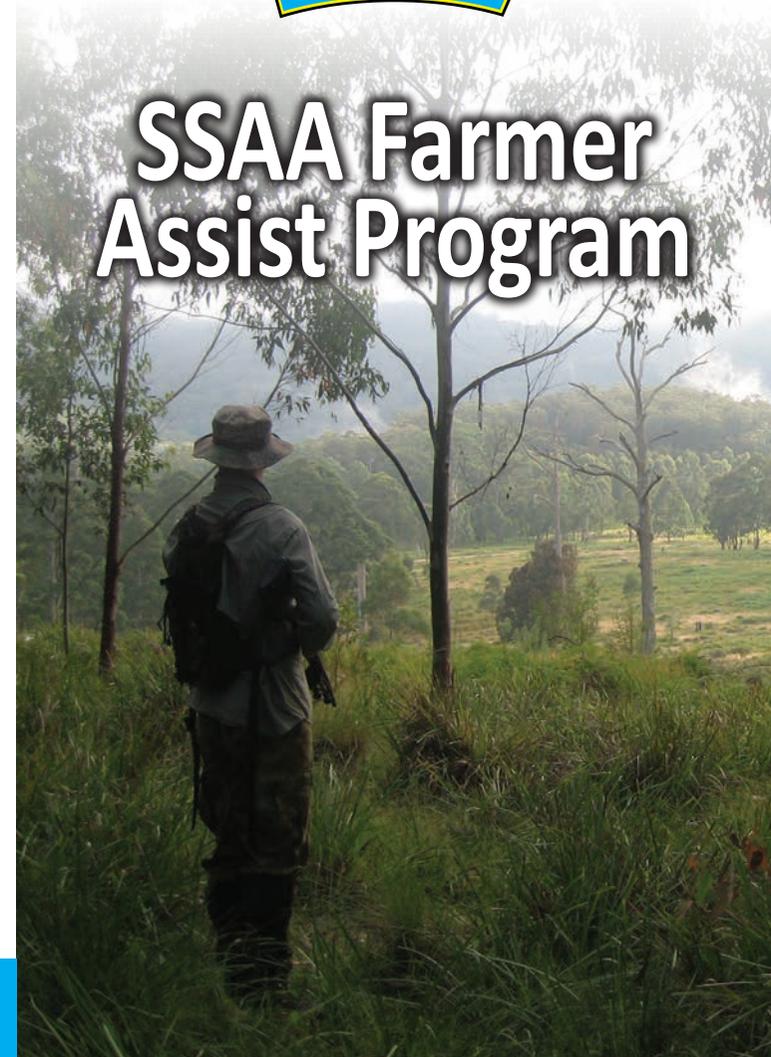

We have official Non-Government Organisation status with the United Nations and we regularly participate in international discussions.

We actively liaise and communicate with Australia's elected leaders and the departments that can affect our interests.

We assist in and coordinate research projects, as well as develop our own wildlife management initiatives.

SSAA Farmer Assist Program

SSAA Farmer Assist

The Sporting Shooters' Association of Australia (SSAA) has launched its 'SSAA Farmer Assist' program throughout Australia. This program has been developed to provide farmers and landholders with a simple way of finding qualified SSAA members to undertake shooting as part of pest control activities. This service is provided at no cost.

The program has a unique online portal that acts like an introductory service. Farmers and landholders simply register and then use the program's job board to seek assistance to deal with problem wildlife on their properties. Once the request has been added to the jobs board, only registered members approved for the program can respond to the request. Farmers then simply choose which member/s they want to contact after viewing submitted applications.

For extra peace of mind, all SSAA members participating in the SSAA Farmer Assist Program are covered by the Association's $20m public liability insurance policy. Members involved in the program have committed to a strict code of practice that incorporates safety, animal welfare and ethical shooting.

Members must undertake an assessment to display a professional-like shooting standard.

Farmer Registration Process

Four simple steps to receiving free pest control.

- 1 Sign-up via online portal
- 2 Place a request (job) for assistance
- 3 Receive and then review applications
- 4 Select member/s of your choice

Farmer Testimonials

Farmer Assist is definitely the way to go if you have an unwanted wildlife problem on your property. The quick, easy and effective SSAA process had us in touch with responsible shooters who have come out and helped us to significantly reduce the impacts of pests on our crops and grazing lands.

Andrew, Hannaford

We have always found the Farmer Assist shooters extremely good, communicative and obliging (and very successful!). They ring before they come, and on the way before arrival. They were clean, tidy and left no mess. They camped in our cottage.

Andrew C, Aramac

We found the couple who came to us were very thoughtful and cared for our land...
